HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Mrs. F. Ratko (nee Christina Blomhagen) left for Winnipeg this week to join her husband who is stationed there with the troops.

Chaslin Cameron, wireless air gunner with the R.C.A.F. at Lethbridge, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. McDougall here. It will be his last leave for The Pass.

A basketball game will be held this Friday evening between Michel and Hillcrest boys.

Private C. Carter is visiting his family here.

Danny Kuniaky, of the R.C.A.F., is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuniaky.

No one, rich, fairly well to do, salary earner, wage earner, housewife, has any right to escape his or her proportionate duty. This war is being fought for the protection of all—BUY VICTORY BONDS.

Count among the truly heroic incidents of the present war the trip of the small schooner which defied Nazi dive bombers in the Middle East to take to beleaguered Tobruk 15,000 tins of tobacco, 17,150,000 tins of cigarettes, 15,000 tins of candy and also coffee and milk for the British troops.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

We're shivering again with another cold snap. Boo-oo-oo!

Mr. and Mrs. Budd Wall and son Gregory have moved into town, occupying the house left vacant by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Horning, who moved to De Winton recently.

L. W. Blackburn, of Pincher Creek, was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest, of Spring Coulee, after several weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin, have returned home.

Sergt. Batchelor, of Macleod airport, spent the week end the guest of John Hewitt and family on the North Fork.

Henry Bougerolle has returned from a trip to points on the Pacific coast. A whist drive and dance, sponsored by the local Red Cross, will be held in the Masonic hall on Wednesday night next.

Mrs. T. E. Murphy and son Benton, Mrs. Cecil Elton, Miss Alice Diamond and Bill Atkins were week-end visitors to Calgary.

Mrs. Bert Connelly and two small sons, of Lundbreck, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gunn over the week end.

Eric and Jack Sandeman, young poultry raisers whose enthusiasm spurred them on to early production, hatched out a lovely bunch of chicks by old biddy on Saturday, February 14th.

Lundbreck and Bellevue were well represented at the bridge party here on Monday evening.

A very successful whist drive in aid of St. Joseph's church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Murphy on the old Jack Kemmis ranch on Wednesday evening.

Bill Atkins, who is stationed at Cole Harbour, Vancouver Island, is spending a two weeks' furlough with his wife and children at Lundbreck.

The teacher, James Addie, and pupils of Todd Creek school celebrated St. Valentine's day by holding a skating party and wiener roast down on the creek nearby. A cheery bonfire added zest to the party.

A very successful tea and sale of home cooking was held by ladies of the United church in the Masonic hall on Saturday afternoon last.

A well attended bridge party, under auspices of the local Red Cross, was held in the Masonic hall on Monday evening. Honors were awarded to Miss Isabel Fisher, of Bellevue, and Miss Bessie Smith, of Lundbreck, for the ladies, and E. Wilson and "Doc" Key, of Bellevue, for the gents. Mrs. I. Christie and Mrs. M. A. Murphy were on the refreshment committee.

On Sunday afternoon, in spite of blustering weather, Miss Nellie McWilliam and pupils of the Cowley school held a skating party on the river near A. J. Snyder's place. A roaring bonfire and wiener roast were accompanying pleasures.

Fred Dionne, who was on leave for two weeks, returned to Victoria on

"We Did It Before; We Can Do It Again!"

Above is the motto adopted by the Blairmore-Frank booster committee for the "Second Victory Loan Drive." "Over with a bang," has since been accepted as a term expressing the result of the first two days of the big effort—which, as far as Blairmore and Frank are concerned, is no effort at all. If the ceiling had been a thousand feet higher we could have more than reached it.

Local district organization, directed by Mr. Kenny Ringland, of Lethbridge, with Mr. W. H. Chappell as local supervisor, had no difficulty in going over our unit allotment of $118,000. In fact, it was more than in hand 20 hours before the campaigning was supposed to start.

To celebrate the local success, members of the committee placed three pennants under the Victory Loan flag at 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

The campaigning had at that time barely started. Subscriptions continued and are still pouring in, and there is every evidence that Blairmore-Frank can surpass any community of its size of population in Canada in this drive. All seem to realize that we are facing a struggle which requires not only what we are and can do physically, but what we have to spare in a fight for freedom.

We understand that Coleman and Bellis Hillcrest are also putting up a splendid campaign, with the hope of equalling or even surpassing the percentage won in the 1941 loan effort.

Assisting greatly in the campaign here and at other Crow's Nest Pass points was the presence of "Miss Sunshine," Miss Evelyn Dinsmoor, kindly loaned from Long Beach, California, assisted by Wing Commander Jones, of No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School, Lethbridge, the Macleod Airforce Band and talented troupes.

On behalf of Blairmore-Frank, a beautiful scene of Turtle Mountain and the Frank Slide was presented to Miss Dinsmoor by Mr. Chappell. Greetings brought from California to Blairmore by Miss Dinsmoor were conveyed through His Worship Mayor E. Williams, who in accepting same made an able appeal to the great audience of a thousand or more assembled in the Columbus hall for support of this most worthy effort. The hall could not by any means accommodate the great crowd attending on Sunday afternoon. So interesting was the programme presented that encores extended it from what was supposed to be about one and a half hours to almost two and a half hours.

Thanks to the visiting entertainers were extended by Mr. Chappell. Leaving here later in the evening, a similar treat was enjoyed by the people of Coleman.

Reporting Tuesday $153,000 for a quota of $118,000, Blairmore-Frank are displaying South Alberta's first honor flag in white with a red maple leaf.

The last minute figures show total sales of Blairmore-Frank now number 97 and the amount subscribed $163,200, being 38 per cent over quota.

The people of this unit are to be congratulated on their willingness to support the Loan and help to smother the CROOKED CROSS and its allies.

Saturday after visiting his wife and family here, and on the eve of his father's leaving, a son, Teddy, stationed at the coast, arrived to spend two weeks with his mother, sister and brothers, and friends around town.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

A most enjoyable party was held on Friday evening in the United church auditorium, when about seventy friends of Mrs. Frank Lamey (nee Caroline Moore) gathered to do her honor.

During the evening community singing was enjoyed, and two competitions, directed by Mrs. MacDonald, resulted as follows: first competition, Mrs. Simister and Mrs. Larbalestier, first; second competition, Mrs. Simister, first; Miss M. Patterson, second.

A dainty luncheon was served, after which the guest of honor was presented with a 32-piece set of Georgian crystal and several pieces of blue Mikado china on a silver tray, for which she very ably thanked her many friends.

Hostesses were Mesdames J. Patterson, D. Walker, J. B. Haymer, W. L. Evans and C. A. Fraser, who were assisted in serving by several of the younger set.

BLAIRMORE VIOLINIST TO PERFORM AT CRANBROOK

Plans have been completed at both Cranbrook and Kimberley for the staging of concerts about the middle of March, at which Frank Hesel, promising young violinist of this district, will perform. Frank has been making splendid reputation for himself since he started as a pupil of W. H. Moser, and has been heard at musical festivals at Blairmore, Cranbrook, Nelson, Lethbridge, Trail and other points. He is now able to step out on the platform and give a delightful and well finished performance. According to a recent issue of the Nelson Daily News, he brought to St. Paul's United church a throng of music lovers who filled all available seats and extra chairs placed at the rear of the auditorium.

The new American battleship Alabama was launched at Portsmouth, Va., on Monday, completed nine months ahead of schedule.

Premier Hepburn of Ontario last week declared that the Japanese have a much better navy than the United States, and that the American navy was afraid to make contact with the Japanese fleet.

Saskatchewan's effort is to double the number of Victory Loan buyers this time. In other words, to sell bonds to at least one in every ten people, and obtain 80,000 buyers. And there'll be a prize—a $50 bond absolutely free to the winning district.

Hundreds of fishing boats owned by persons of Japanese origin have been taken over on Canada's Pacific Coast. The vessels will either be purchased or leased from the owners and operated by white fishermen for the duration of the war. A Canadian flag is shown here as it attaches a light to the mast of one of the Jap vessels after it had been seized. The boats were towed to Vancouver Island from points all along the coast.

ANNUAL MEETING OF I.O.O.F.

At the annual meeting of Crow's Nest Chapter, I.O.O.F., held in the Anglican hall on Tuesday night of last week, officers' reports were read and election of officers for the ensuing year took place. The new officers are: Mrs. R. Simister, regent; Mrs. J. L. McLeod, first vice-regent; Mrs. H. Carmichael, second vice-regent; Mrs. G. Maniquet, secretary; Mrs. C. E. Hughson, treasurer; Mrs. Ben Hobson, educational secretary; Mrs. Clarence Gilmar, echoes secretary; Mrs. F. H. McKay, standard bearer; Mrs. H. Pinkney, Empire study convener; Mrs. S. McKay, emergency treasurer; Mrs. R. Decoux, war work convener.

The Chapter spent a very active year participating in the following: Tuesday nights, knitting bees, when friends and the public met to knit articles for the active forces; chain teas, celebration of Dominion Day sports, purchased wreath for the cenotaph, sale of poppies, tag day, etc. Funds have been raised for the Chapter by knitting-bee teas, chain teas, draws, sale of calendars, Christmas cards, seals, etc. Generous donations were received from the Blairmore E. E.S.I. for overseas parcels only; the Blairmore Red Cross, towards Christmas cheer parcels for the boys on active service, both at home and overseas. Three cushions were also donated to the Chapter by a well-wisher to help war-work funds.

Donations were made to war services films, camp libraries, recreation centres, work in India, endowment fund, Coronation Bursary, layettes and mothers' clothing to the bombed-out areas of Britain, milk for Britain. Christmas cheer was also given to several blind persons. Calendars were given to each room in our schools, and to the Blairmore Public Library. War Savings Stamps were given to a grade IX pupil for his essay, "What Democracy Means To Me." Prizes were also awarded to two other pupils of Grade IX, for their high standing. 142 parcels were sent out to local boys in the armed forces. Disbursements for the year totalled $387.59 for war work, and $443.50 general.

Parcels were sent to 82 men in the armed forces, as follows:

Douglas Lord, W. Archer, D. Smith and J. Petrik, in the Navy.

Ronald MacDonald, J. Zemek, Arthur Morris, W. Knight, J. Robach, J. McDonald, Alex. FIGURE CAMOUFLAGE FOR MATRONS

By Anne Adams

It's time to do something about those extra pounds! If you can't go on a diet, wear an Anne Adams frock! Pattern 4909 will camouflage any extra width at the waist and hips... princess panels in front and back are the magical trick! A low waist seam helps too. You can even make the two front neck-to-hem panels of contrast for a still narrower effect. A half-belt starting at either side of these panels is optional. You'll enjoy working on this dress with the helpful Sewing Instructor to show you every detail; you'll enjoy wearing it and receiving compliments on your new slim figure! For the frock, pick a posy-print cotton and short or long sleeves, and add the button trim if you like.

Pattern 4909 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 4 yards 3/4 inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

Synthetic Rubber

Think Substitutes Will Prove Better Than Natural Rubber

Prof. G. L. Clark, noted University of Illinois chemist, whose research efforts contributed to commercial development of synthetic rubber, predicts that substitutes in America soon will be better than natural rubber.

Starting his research in 1925, Clark set up a laboratory to X-ray rubber and study the molecules of which it is composed. He found that when rubber is stretched, some of long, twisted molecules line up into crystals, and that this partial crystallization, which ends when the stretch is released, is a property that every substitute or synthetic rubber must have.

He also found that the manner in which ordinary rubber stretches is different from that in which it returns to its previous shape. Plotting the elongation against the extent of crystallization, he showed the stretching process as a smooth upswinging curve, while the "unstretching" curve has a series of bumps like a rocky hillside.

In 1935 he learned that a molecule of rubber weighs 500,000 times as much as a molecule of hydrogen, although all previous estimates placed the weight at only 68,000 times. No molecules this large had ever been made by chemists. After his finding they set out to make molecules of molecular weight up to 500,000, and when this was done, useful synthetic rubber became feasible.

Awarded British Empire Medal

Steward On German Captured Tanker Aids British Patrol In Rescue

Thomas Hugget, a steward aboard the German-captured 8,046-ton tanker, San Casimiro, was awarded the British Empire Medal for his feat a year ago in surreptitiously painting a three-foot-high "SOS" deck sign which enabled British patrols to recapture the ship.

The San Casimiro was taken by the German battleship Gneisenau last March in the western Atlantic when a prize crew under Lieut. Otto Grenz was put aboard her.

"You'll never get through our patrols," British seamen told the lieutenant who stowed them below deck.

As the tanker neared England en route to a German-held port, a plane from the aircraft carrier Ark Royal flew over.

Mixing a paste of flour and water, Hugget evaded the prize crewmen, found a bit of uninhabited deck, and painted his big sign.

When the Nazi commander, Lieut. Gries, discovered it, he told Hugget: "My compliments. A nice job. Now scrub it off."

But a British plane had spotted the sign, and in a short time the battle cruiser Renown appeared on the horizon and recaptured the ship despite Nazi attempts to scuttle her.

Interested In Geography

War Has Proved A Great Stimulant To Students

War is a definite boom to the science of geography, according to Dr. Raymond E. Murphy, of the Pennsylvania State College.

"War pumps fresh blood into the study of geography, which is allowed to stagnate in times of peace," says Dr. Murphy. "Whether we like it or not, we are concerned in the affairs of the entire world. Our entrance into the war should rekindle a wave of interest in geography throughout the country."

The study of geography boomed during World War I, but was allowed to stagnate in the years that followed, Dr. Murphy said. This lethargic attitude was reflected in a lack of interest in the subject among students, he added.

Exported From Orient

Western World Depends On Tropical Regions For Its Spices

Spices are grown chiefly in the tropical regions of the Orient, the main countries of production being the Netherlands East Indies, India, China, Japan, the Malay Peninsula, and certain islands off the coast of Africa, notably Madagascar, Pemba and Zanzibar. It is in the large group islands that we know as the Netherlands East Indies that we find the Molucca Islands that are often referred to as the Spice Islands.

The waterways of India are thick with pepper-laden palm trees, native boats that look like a cross between a canoe and a cradle. Lumbering ox-carts, lazy mules, amble along the roads leading from inland plantations to seaport warehouses. Perilously fragile-looking sail boats, manned by turbaned natives, ply between the islands of the East and carry the fragrant bales of cinnamon and cloves to the chief harbor of export.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 23

JESUS APPOINTS AND TEACHES THE TWELVE

Golden text: Even so let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven. Matthew 5:16.

Lesson: Mark 3:13-19; Matthew 5:7; Luke 6:12-49.

Devotional reading: II Timothy 3:1-4.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Appoints The Twelve, Luke 6:12-16. It was in "these days" that what Luke records in this sixth chapter occurred: he is not making any effort here to be definite as to time. In these days Jesus went into the mountains to pray and continued there all night in prayer. Luke refers to six prayers of Jesus which the other Evangelists omit: the prayer at his baptism, after curing the leper, before calling the disciples, at the transfiguration, on the cross for his murderers and when dying. Jesus was a Man of prayer.

In the morning he chose from among all his followers a little group of twelve apostles, he named apostles, messengers. "The number twelve is significant and symbolical, pointing to the twelve tribes of a new Israel. And by that choice of twelve Jesus did two things: (1) he recommended himself to himself. Every Jew knew in a moment what the choice of the twelve implied. It implied that Jesus was the promised and long-expected Messiah. It meant that he was the fulfillment of ancient prophecy. And (2) it provided the apostles themselves with a constant stimulus to devotion and support of faith. It carried their minds back to the promise of (J. D. Jones).

They were ordinary men, these twelve, men from the ordinary ranks of life. Four of them were fishermen, one was a tax-collector. Dr. F. B. Meyer divides them into three groups. In the first are men of action and leadership: Peter, John, James and Andrew. In the second are the men who were fishermen, and he called the contemplative group; the promoters (J. D. Jones). In the third are the men of practical and political tendencies: James, Thomas and Judas. The first disciples were called by Jesus soon after his baptism and the twelve were chosen at the end of February first. Early in his Galilean mission, he chose. The Twelve for their privileges and responsibilities of constant, intimate companionship. Thereafter much of his time was spent in teaching them and preparing them to take up his work.

Cheese Shipments

With regard to cheese, the Dairy Products Board has been following a definite schedule of shipments to Great Britain and enough cheese is on hand, in addition to that already shipped, to more than fill the quota of 112 million pounds by the end of the fiscal year, March 31, 1942. This will represent an increase of about 14 million pounds over the previous fiscal year.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

EPIDEMICS AVOIDED IN BRITAIN

Sir Wilson Jameson, Chief Medical Officer of the British Ministry of Health, in his report on British Health Services in Wartime in Bulletins from Britain, received by the Health League of Canada, explains that epidemics have been avoided in England during the war years.

"We very naturally dreaded the appearance of serious epidemic diseases in the unusual conditions in which people were living," Sir Wilson writes, "and in order to assist early diagnosis we established a system, under the management of the Medical Research Council, of more than thirty emergency public health laboratories covering the whole country." Some of these as Sir Wilson explains were new creations, others, which had been in existence for years, were brought into the scheme. "As a result every Medical Officer of Health has now a first-class laboratory within a maximum radius of 30 miles," Sir Wilson states. "Not only does the laboratory do the bench work needed but the staff go out and help with the field work."

Sir Wilson Jameson admits that one of the fears of the Ministry of Health was that, with the inevitable damage to water mains and sewers by bombing attacks, there would be a great increase in the incidence of typhoid fever. Happily that fear has never been realized. Sir Wilson explains that the disinfection of mains under repairs, by means of chlorine, has proved an excellent safeguard and neither in London nor elsewhere have there been any outbreaks of typhoid fever due to damage to mains and sewers as a result of air raids. On the other hand, he admits that there have been a number of epidemics of paratyphoid fever traceable in a majority of instances to infection associated with premises where bread and various kinds of pastries are made.

Soybean Production

The soybean production of soybeans in Canada is due mainly to the realization by stockmen that soybean protein can be used satisfactorily to balance the coarse grains—oats, barley, corn, which constitute the bases of rations used for growing and fattening live stock and for the production of eggs and milk.

"ALL THAT GLITTERS"
—By—
ANNE TEDLOCK BROOKS

What Has Gone Before: Knox Randolph and his daughter invite Major Towne and Christopher Sande to the old plantation home for lunch. They are to discuss the finding of the papers that make Tamar half owner of the place, and the idea of a new contract that will give the Randolphs a more equal share of whatever gold is taken from the mine. It is here that Tamar's suspicions are aroused by Towne's actions. Later they start for Dick Sheridan's office to draw up a new contract and Tamar, seeing Ratify, tells him the news also.

CHAPTER IX.

"I know something that you should have learned before your father agreed to lease the land. I found it out purely accidentally, too." Ransome Todd leaned toward Tamar, who had settled back again in the chair across from his desk.

Ransome picked up a pencil and traced figures on his blue blotter. Tamar, watching them, saw they consisted of circles and triangles connected with dots and dashes. "Heaven's Sake, stop it, Ransome! You're ruining your blotter."

He grinned and started to erase them but gave it up as a bad job. "You know the Pettin family, Tamar."

"Theresa Pettin comes in yesterday afternoon just before the bank closed, on a little business. He was sent in to me for renewing a note and when asked about the possibilities of paying it in two months he said they were excellent. The ground's pisen with gold, Mr. Todd. The Cricket Hill's worth a fortune. I saw some men working around there last February."

"Last February?" Tamar exclaimed. "Why, how could that be?" "That could be easily done and no one would suspect a thing. I honestly believe that the Major knew all about the chances for his strike before he ever took an option on the mine. I think that he had enough sample ore taken out of the mine in February to test."

Tamar sprang to her feet. "Is there any way we could ever prove it?" Ransome stood over her desk. "I don't know what to say. The thing to do now, is for you to make any demands you see fit in the amount of your percentage of the product. It may be best right now for you not to reveal your suspicions."

Tamar's face was pale. "I don't like to do now, is for you to make any demands you see fit in the amount of your percentage of the product. It may be best right now for you not to reveal your suspicions."

"That's why you should write your own terms into that contract. My advice is to go ahead now and take what you can get."

Tamar turned at the door and held out her hand. "I want you to know, Ransome, that I think you've been grand over all of this and that I do appreciate it."

She was gone then, and Ransome saw her run up the stairs through the glass door of the lobby.

When she reached the law office of Sheridan & Sheridan Christopher Sande had thoughtfully disappeared, and only the Major, her father and Dick Sheridan were there.

The men courteously rose and she motioned them back to their seats. "Thanks, Dick," she said sitting down to his desk.

She was allowed to remember the hour that followed. Her father looked at her, questioning, when she raised the amount that he asked for, by 15 per cent. more. She looked at him so jealously and with such eyes that he saw that she had reasons, perhaps he saw that she had reasons. The Major set his lips and his jaw and settled back in his chair. Dick Sheridan had already procured a duplicate of the document that Tamar had found in the old trunk this morning.

In the end Tamar had her way about the terms of the contract. If it had been necessary to hint to the Major that she knew about the workmen about the mine in February, she would have mentioned it, but something warned her to be glad that she did not have to tell of it. If her father had known, he probably would not have had any dealings with the Major.

The Major was silent as they went back down the stairs and into the mid-afternoon sun. The engineers joined them and they went back to Shawdell. Tamar and her father watched the long black car glide back down the drive as they stood together on the veranda.

As it turned the curve in the road, he turned to her with a question in his eyes that were so nearly the color of hers.

"Don't ask me why, Dad. I just think it was the right thing to do. I have a feeling the Major isn't as honest as he tries to pretend. It must be Grandfather's blood showing up in me. As Phoebe says: I got my grandfather up."

"You've got a good business head, Tamar," he said stooping to kiss her cheek. "Let's go tell Mother about our afternoon."

It surprised Tamar to see how much work had been done at the mine the next time she visited it. This time she did not take Madcap, but drove her own coupe that her father had given her for a birthday present the week before.

The air to-day was cool and she had put on a soft blue sweater, and navy slacks. She took off her sun glasses and slipped them into their case. She stepped up on a rock and stood watching the men at work. Her bare hair caught and held the sun and it flashed blue-black against the turn of her head.

Christopher Sande, emerging from the darkness of the tunnel into the Cricket Hill, stopped in surprise as he saw the slender girl poised on the big rock.

"Hello!" she called gaily. "You have company."

He crossed the path over to meet

her. "Don't you know that you really shouldn't come here by yourself?" he asked gruffly, taking her hand.

Tamar smiled. "Oh, I'm not afraid of coming out here in broad daylight. Heaven's! I've roamed the hills of Shawdell on Macpac since I was first able to sit in a saddle."

"I know," he agreed. "But he was different then. Don't get the mistaken idea that coming to the Cricket Hill now is just like the good old days. You're far too pretty to trust out on these lonely roads. Why," he grinned engagingly, "even I have a very good notion to spirit you away."

"Do!" she dared him, her blue eyes laughing into his dark ones.

He glanced quickly at his wrist-watch. "I wish I could. But I have to report to the Major at the Kandy Kitchen at lunch."

"I wish it wouldn't seem too forward of me to suggest my taking you there," she said.

"Not at all," he bantered. "I'm used to being pursued by beautiful young ladies with blue eyes and," he said, studying her hair, "the most ravishing curls. It's difficult to evade them—the girls I mean!"

"Egotist! Get in," she started to eyes her coupe. "We've wasted a minute, she snapped on the starter and they rolled into the wagon tracks leading back to the road. "I'll bet that you were the dashing hero back in Boston."

"Is that a request for my autobiography, or will it be used against me?"

"Isn't everything one says used against him?" she countered. "Please tell me what you do for fun?"

"You know, the usual. Dancing, football games, skiing in the winter. But my secret love is sailing. I have my own sailboat, the Betina."

"That must be lots of fun. I think I'd like that. We ride and dance and swim here for amusement."

With a sweeping of her hand she brushed the curls from her eyes. In her well lit black suit, he could see that she had the grace of one who excelled in swimming, dancing and riding.

"Do you think I can find a horse to use of these early mornings. We could go about 6, and I'd get to the Cricket Hill in plenty of time to start work."

"Oh, we can make some arrangements about that. She wished for Tabitha's II. back again so that Christopher Sande could gallop over the dewy meadow with her, in the early sunrise that Shawdell knew. Perhaps she could borrow him from present owner, Ransome."

An odd feeling possessed her. Wasn't it just a little unfair to borrow the roan from Ransome to lend to Christopher?

She was still toying with the idea, and wondering how it happened to strike her, when she drove up in front of the Kandy Kitchen.

The Major's car was standing outside and Sande remarked: "I hope I'm on time. Won't you come in and have lunch with me?"

He stood with one brown leather boot up on the running board, his soft felt hat, in his hand.

Tamar's heart turned over. Her hands gripped the steering wheel to keep from trembling. "Thank you, no. I'll shop a bit and pick you up to take you back at an hour."

"I'll be ready," he said.

She drove slowly down the street that was empty save for the loiterers on the corners and the conversationists on the park benches skirting the courthouse. Tabitha's was at lunch. Several of the business men patronized the Kandy Kitchen counter for their meals, as it boasted one of the finest cooks in town.

She felt her hands still trembling. Christopher Sande, his name had a lovely sound. His face rose before her, strong featured, dark eyes that had dreams in their depths, straight, jutting brows. Like something struggling for attention, came another face before her, blonde hair softly waving back from a wide, high forehead, dark eyes that had more than dreams within them.

Why should Ransome's face assert itself across her vision, when she wanted to think only of Christopher? Suddenly she gasped. When she glanced for the white light, some one sprang on the running board. It was Ransome. He smiled, which helped take the sting out of his bantering: "In the taxi business?"

From War To War

Horses Which Were Almost Eliminated Are Now Coming Back

Horses are coming back. That's the news from the farm front. With gasoline and rubber and steel on this restricted list owing to their need for fighting the war, old Dobbin promises to come back with his own. Horse power on the farm is likely to mean just that, and in increasing measure as the war goes on.

It was, strange as it may seem, during the last war that farm mechanization got its first big boost in Western Canada. In those days war equipment was much less complicated than now, and mechanization did not require so much steel, gasoline and the like.

During the war, too, wages of farm labor jumped to six and eight dollars a day and with farmers being called upon to the limit of their capacity there was a demand for machines that would do a big job faster than horses could do it. Thousands of the early gasoline tractors were sold in South Alberta in 1916, 1917 and 1918, and that was the beginning of Dobbin's near-extinction—Lethbridge Herald.

Factories in Miniature

Any Housewife Would Envy Kitchens For British War Workers

Housewives anywhere may envy the great kitchens which are now part of Britain's war factories, serving substantial meals at 35 cents, and washing up in one hour 12,000 plates, cups, knives, forks and spoons without a single dishcloth.

Here is one of their meals: Scotch broth, roast lamb, mint sauce and two vegetables, apple tart, roll and butter, coffee.

The new kitchens which prepare these meals are themselves factories in miniature, with ovens as high as five feet. Into one machine goes the potatoes which are peeled at a speed of 56 lbs. a minute; another machine mashes the potatoes; a third rolls out the pastry for the apple tart.

When they are all cooked, the dinners go into a vast hot cabinet, 180 at a time; and 7,000 workers sit down to this good hot meal little more than ten minutes after they have knocked off work.

Anything left over is tipped into a bin and a warm apron is played upon each side of a line of empty bled. The plates are then washed with cold water, a hot spray is turned on them and they dry at once as they meet the cold air.

And not a dishcloth is used in the washing up of this dinner for a family of 7,000 workers for the war.

Canadian Hog Production

Prairie Provinces Have Been Increasing Their Output

An upsurge in western Canadian hog production has brought new encouragement in the campaign to provide the United Kingdom with a record-breaking, 600,000,000 pounds of bacon under an existing contract, agriculture department officials said.

The most spectacular production gain of the year has been reported on the prairies. Saskatchewan's hog carcass gradings for January totalled 70,286 compared with 48,294 in the same period last year.

While western provinces have increased their output, Quebec and Ontario deliveries have lagged thus far in 1942.

"While the percentage of increase in production is not in proportion to the increase in contract requirements, the picture is more encouraging in the last few weeks," an agriculture department official said.

Public co-operation in keeping down bacon consumption and further production gains still will be necessary to complete the contract.

VICTORY LOAN SUNDAY

Church recognition and support of the Second Victory Loan campaign already launched, as an essential phase of the war effort to preserve religious as well as social and national freedom in Canada, will be given through observance of Victory Loan Sunday on February 22nd.

Starting off the second week of the $600,000,000 loan drive, scheduled for February 16 to March 7, the observance will mark co-operation of the country's churches in the new offering of Victory Bonds. It is expected the churches will assist chiefly by reference to the loan and appeals for its support, either from pulpits or by lay speakers in brief addresses from the channels of churches.

Leaders of all church denominations across the country have been asked by Hon. J. L. Halsey, minister of finance, to arrange assistance along these lines. A similar appeal during the previous Victory Loan campaign last June met with widespread response throughout the Dominion, it was recalled at headquarters of the National War Finance Committee, directing preparations for offering of the new loan.

In addition, it is expected that in many churches, Victory Loan comments and appeals for support will be made in the course of sermons.

INCREASE YOUR BOND BUYING

As the war lengthens, Great Britain's needs grow and grow, and as Canada's armed forces increase so steadily month by month in terms of men and equipment, the Canadian government has had to revise its estimates of what money must be obtained from the people of the country in order to prevent any slackening of pace. On February 16th, the Second Victory Loan organization commenced a campaign to raise at least $600,000,000. In all likelihood, much more than that will have to be raised later in the year.

No private citizen is in a position to shug his shoulders when told about this particular problem at Ottawa. Because in this instance particularly the government problem becomes the problem of each citizen which the government represents. As the government revises the general estimate of new money to be found, the private citizen must revise his estimate of how much he shall subscribe to the loan and another or others later in 1942.

Only if the majority of citizens accept the necessity for a revision of the amount of Victory Bonds they had planned to buy in 1942 will higher Victory Loan objectives be reached.

The most earnest plea which the country of Canada can make to the individual citizen at the present time is that he do everything in his power to increase his purchase of Victory Bonds.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windrose)

Edmonton, Feb. 17.—The Alberta legislature passed the first big hurdle of what was promised to be a short session when it ended the debate on a speech from the throne last Thursday. The debate had lasted ten full days and abated none of its usual wordy character.

On the closing day of the debate Premier Aberhart undertook to deliver one of his rare speeches to the house, this time, in order to defend himself against his critics. He succeeded to his own satisfaction no doubt, but there was nothing new in the performance; it was just another familiar effort to spread a halo above his own head. It is wonderful how much some people can appreciate themselves!

The throne speech debate demonstrated clearly that now the Independents are getting accustomed to the rules, regulations and limitations of parliamentary procedure, they are becoming a more formidable opposition group than they were in the last session. Speeches were on a high order and some telling blows were punched into the government's wind bag. Dints are appearing in the Social Credit armor, and cracks in the thick skin of cabinet complacency. It isn't possible to cover fully all the speeches made during the ten-day discussion, but some of them stand out among the finest heard in the Alberta legislature.

J. H. Walker, last year's house leader for the opposition, made a strong and convincing attack on the government's tendency to increase taxation. He offered the services of the Independent members to the government, saying he felt certain they could show where economies could be made that would remove any need for increased taxation.

He charged that a large amount of money had been voted by the legislature for unemployment relief, and his has not been spent. The civil service was over-stuffed, he declared, and the cost was $900,000 a year more than what it was under the U. F. A. administration previous to 1935.

Mr. Walker pointed to the Treasury Branches as the big elephant in the present government setup. These branches are costing the province $350,000 a year, and doing nobody any good, he said. They are simply a duplication of services that could be dropped at once without being missed.

"I COULD SPEAK OF . . ."

"Canada, sir, occupies a unique position in the British Empire because of its unbreakable ties with Britain and its ever-growing friendship and intimate association with the United States. Canada is a potent magnet, drawing together those in the new world and in the old whose fortunes are now united in a deadly struggle for life and honor against the common foe.

"The contribution of Canada to the Imperial war effort, in troops, in ships, in aircraft, in food and in finance has been magnificent . . .

"I could, sir, speak also on the naval production of corvettes; and above all of merchant ships, which is proceeding at a scale almost equal to the building of the United Kingdom, all of which Canada has set on foot.

"I could speak of many other activities . . . of tanks, of the special forms of high-velocity cannon, of the great supplies of raw materials and many other elements essential to our war effort, on which your labors are ceaselessly and tirelessly engaged. But I must not let my address to you become a catalogue . . ."

—Right Honorable Winston Spencer Churchill, prime minister of Great Britain, in an address to a joint assembly of the Senate and House of Commons in the Commerce Chamber, Ottawa, December 20th, 1941.

LETTER TO HOLDEN HERALD

I can no longer remain silent and withstand the opportunity of expressing my indignation at the expensive and autocratic manner of administration of the Holden Division, particularly at this time of stress of war conditions throughout the entire world.

Indeed, Sir, I have greater respect for the all-out Hitler type of dictatorship, with all its injustices, than this more subtle dictatorship that clothes itself under the guise of Social Justice and calls itself democratic.

At our last municipal convention I had occasion to demand a definition of "Democracy" from the Minister of Municipal Affairs, during a discussion on the subject of "enlarged municipal districts." He answered in the words of that great democrat and commoner, Abraham Lincoln, "Government of the people, by the people and for the people." What a travesty of this principle is the administration of rural education as carried out by the enlarged division.

Truly, the worst enemies of Democracy are not those who come out in the open and boldly denounce it, but rather it is those predatory degenerates who come in sheep's clothing and spread the fungus of decay which saps its life-blood, leaving merely an empty skeleton without vitality or energy.

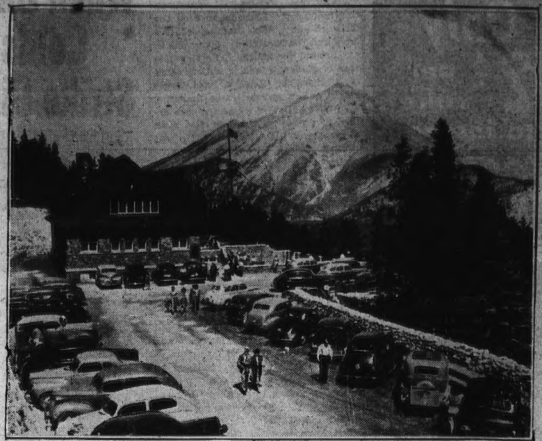

This is what happened in Germany, the very cradle of its first origin among the ancient Franks. It also happened in France and caused the collapse of that great empire. The Darlans and Petains, like Aberhart of Alberta, did the undermining and sowed the seed of destruction.

The way in which rural schools are being administered goes to prove it can happen here on these wide virgin prairies untamed and free until a short generation ago; and you men of the soil who tamed this wilderness into domesticated serfs, shorn of your civil rights as free citizens, deprived of the dignity to which you are entitled by every charitable law of justice, should wake up.

NATIONAL DEFENCE PLEDGE

"I will keep myself fit physically, mentally, spiritually, to be ready for any crisis, and to discipline myself for strength.

"I will go about my business with a clear eye, a cool head, and a stout heart, neither scared by wild rumor nor deluded by false security.

"I will do my particular job in office, store, shop, mill, or farm, better than it was ever done before, dedicating my skill to my country's service.

"I will take an active interest in government, in town, school, district, country, state, and nation, and make it my business to understand public affairs, laws, and policies.

"I will help build my town as a wholesome, balanced community, because if all the communities are sound, our country will be sound.

"I will vote in every election, appreciating the right of the ballot now denied in many lands.

"I will support billions for defence, but not one cent for waste.

"I will work for unity among all our people and oppose efforts to create hatred based on race, creed, or color.

"I will encourage our boys and girls to revere and respect traditions.

"I will keep faith with myself, my country, and my God."—Hubert M. Harrison, in the Farmers' Elevator Guide.

"There is something odd about you this morning," said Hitler to Goering.

"I know what it is, too. For the first time since I've known you you've left off your medals."

Goering looked down at his chest. "Heavens," he cried, "I forgot to take 'em off my pyjamas!"

HUMAN SKULL "PREDICTS"
END OF WAR AUG. 15, 1943

John E. Green, the travelling magician and illusionist, staged performances in Olds on Thursday and Friday nights of last week. Among his large collection of tricks and illusions he carries with him a human skull, which he calls "Elmer."

This skull is supposed to be endowed with power of answering any question put to it. As it cannot speak, it gives its answers by mapping its jaws—once for "no," twice for "yes."

Asked by the magician if there will be conscription in Canada this year, the skull answered "yes."

The magician then proceeded to ask the skull when the present war would come to an end.

"Will it end in 1942?" "No."

"Will it end in 1943?" "Yes."

The magician then started to name the months, beginning with January, to which the skull answered "no" until he named August, and the skull said "yes." He then proceeded to name the days from one, and when he got to 18 the skull answered "yes."

So there you are, folks, you can believe or not.—Olds Gazette.

Oh, For a Spinster!

We have arrived at the conclusion that the reason married men make so few breaks compared with single men is because their wives interpose and prevent them making fools of themselves. This is a sound argument in favor of matrimony. Therefore, bring on your spinsters, and in bringing bring nothing but spinsters, spinsters, spinsters. Oh, for a spinster! As has been remarked before, it is love that makes the world go round, and marriage enables it to get square.—Bob Edwards.

OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MEN

Young Albertians of military age who wish to learn a trade on entering the Army, which will be of great benefit to them on their return to civil life, and at the same time fit themselves to do a "specialized" job in the war effort, are provided with the opportunity, under "The Army Tradesmen Training Plan," officials of Military District No. 13 announce.

The courses are thorough in every respect and under the plan the candidates learn a trade which would cost from $1,000 up to $1,500, depending on the course, in civilian life. Another feature is that if accepted for a course, they receive regular active service rates of pay and allowances while taking the course.

In these courses men are trained to become experts as artificers, blacksmiths, carpenters, clerks, copper-smiths, sheet metal workers, draughtsmen, electricians, engine artificers, fitters, mechanists, motor mechanics, tinmiths, radio mechanics and wireless operators.

The courses, which are divided into four phases, last from six to eight months for the first three phases, after which comes the fourth phase, which is the military application of the particular trade.

When a recruit joins the Army, it is his privilege to state that he would like to learn a trade. He is interviewed by an officer of the Personnel Selection Board. During this interview, the recruit is advised in detail about the courses, and an effort is made to determine the trade for which he is best suited.

The highest qualification a recruit requires is an earnest desire to learn a trade, together with a reasonable standard of education.

On enlisting and being selected for a trades course, the recruit is sent to a training centre for basic and advanced military training as the first phase. In the second phase of training he is sent to the trades school in the district in which he enlisted. On graduating from there he enters the third phase, which is advanced trades training at one of the Canadian Army Trades Schools in Eastern Canada. From there he graduates to a unit where he puts his knowledge of his particular trade to practical application.

When the candidate graduates from the Canadian Army Trades School, he must have passed a trades test, and he is then eligible to receive trades pay. This pay, ranging from 25 cents to 75 cents a day, according to the trade and qualifications of the tradesman, is in addition to the regular pay of rank and allowance paid in the Canadian Army.

At the present time there are 600 men taking the second phase of trades training in M. D. 13, at trades schools in Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge.

The Lethbridge Herald asked the naive question about a week ago in one of its editorials, "Is Beverly Baxter a 'yes' man?" As the French say, "It is to smile." This individual, while an excellent journalist, is typical of the rightist element predominant in all countries in the last decade that helped to get us, with intriguing and plotting, into this war. They fawn around the seats of the mighty, but should have been seen through long, long ago.—Ex.

Young Lady: "Should evening dress be worn to bridge parties?"
Adviser: "No, in playing cards you need only show your hand."

NEWSPAPERS' CONTRIBUTION TO WAR SERVICES APPEALS

In the campaign for the Victory Loan, as in other campaigns for war loan and war services appeals, the newspapers of Canada have given generously of their space without payment to help in the fight for Victory. They have received regular rates for the advertisements issued by the Department of Finance and war services agencies, and have also received support in advertisements by patriotic business men. But the newspapers far exceeds the paid advertising received, for they feel that their contributions are in keeping with the traditions of the Press to promote and safeguard the ideals of Democracy for which we are now engaged in a world-enduring war.—H. T. Halliwell.

Mrs. George: "Hello, dear. How's the pain in the neck?"
Mrs. Young: "Oh, he's out curling."

An address in favor of the introduction of religious instruction in Alberta schools was given in the Alberta legislature Thursday by J. W. Beaudry, of St. Paul, who produced a remarkable number of current quotations and references to the need for a revival of spiritual faith among people everywhere. "By religion I do not mean any particular system or faith or worship of God, but the recognition of God as an object of worship and our duty toward God, that is to say, the relation existing between the creator and the creature," said the speaker. Following representations made by the Alberta School Trustees Association and signs of a general favorable movement, it is considered by some legislators that a measure may be introduced.

Owing to pressure on our time in connection with the Second Victory Loan last week, many important items of news matter had to be eliminated. We hope, however, to make up for this in future.

Prior to her leaving, Coleman for Calgary, Mrs. W. J. Burns was entertained by members of Victoria Rebeccah Lodge at the home of Mrs. V. G. Grogan, where, on behalf of the sisters, she was presented with a suitable gift by Mrs. Lonsbury.

Women university graduates and undergraduates are needed for inspection work by the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom and Canada, it is announced. Recruiting of some 600 or more girls and women between 20 and 40, who have had advanced training in mathematics, chemistry or radio, will begin at once. The girls will be given responsible positions inspecting gun barrels, gun cartridge parts, fire control instruments, explosives and radio parts. Already 250 are doing such work in plants all across Canada. The girls will not wear dazzling uniforms, and will not get their photographs in the papers. They won't march behind bands of doing work that is essential to the winning of the war. They will work 48 hours a week in a factory. These employed for inspection of explosives will go direct to their stations. They must have specialized in chemistry and hold a university degree. They will be employed either as laboratory assistants at $100 a month, or as junior chemists at $125, according to training and experience. Radio examiners' pay is 38 to 48 cents an hour.

Importance Of Sea Power

The present war was envisaged by the leaders of Germany as a conflict in which air-power would destroy mobility to land battles, destroy cities and workshops on the home front, and break the stranglehold of naval blockade. In this way the Nazis hoped to shorten the period required to secure victory, and to discount, during that period, the wasting effects and deprivation of raw materials and foodstuffs.

The German plan aimed above all at rapid conquest. It was recognized that Germany, like other continental conquerors, might be unable to fight a long war successfully. There was, therefore, to be a lightning victory on land, using air-power and mechanized force to the full, followed by the seizure of French sea-power and the imposition of peace on a cowering Britain, or a lightning invasion if that peace were rejected. The plan took a careful account of the known weaknesses to which Germany was exposed in the Great War. It endeavored to eliminate, in turn, the risk of fighting on two fronts, and the risk of a long war. Air-power was to be the new factor, which would outdate the old conception of stalemate on land and blockade on the sea. Air-power would be the armistice providing the barrage behind which mechanized troops would smash their way through entrenched positions. Air-power would pulverize the enemy's production and demoralize his workers. Air-power would reduce the strength and curtail the movement of warships, giving supremacy at sea to the small but efficient German navy.

A Plan That Failed

The plan which the Nazis considered would revolutionize warfare and bring speedy victory, failed to take into account, however, the changes which air-power has made to sea-power itself. It is the oldest kind of mistake in the long history of warfare—the mistake of applying a ruthlessly new solution to an old problem and of overlooking the fact that the problem in the meantime has become no longer quite the same.

To understand fully the effect of air-power in modern total war, it is necessary to understand the true use and meaning of sea-power, for it was sea-power, in the end, which broke the might of German arms in the last war, and sea-power to-day embraces air-power. Sea and air-power has the capacity to win this war, for when Britain puts into the air an overwhelming advance guard of bombing aircraft and fighters, her ships can engage the sea to land whole armies at numerous points along a vast and therefore poorly protected enemy coastline. Wherever superiority in the air can be secured, superiority at sea already exists to make it good. Germany's difficulty in invading Britain is that she must attack, with questionable air superiority and great inferiority at sea, an island bastion, the defence of which is organized on the inside of a circle. Britain's advantage is that, given air superiority, she can attack a sprawling and indefensible coast at scores of points, and can secure communications to every bridge-head she builds thereon.

Sea And Air Power Combined

However long the war lasts, Germany is unable to make good her original error—the error of believing that if it is cheaper and better to build bombers than to build battleships. To her traditional failure to understand the true importance of sea-power was added a failure to grasp the revolutionary effect of sea-power combined with air-power.

British and Allied sea-and-air-power will turn back the invader and will maintain the Allies' communications and supplies, whilst drawing ever closer the net of blockade around the enemy. It will support and make possible the coming land battles which will bring the final victory. It is the supreme weapon which can win that victory outright.

The Speed Of Lightning

"Fast as lightning" is not a definite rate of speed; scientists say it varies greatly. The speed of lightning has been measured at from 14,900 to 68,400 miles a second. The average speed is about 28,500 miles a second. After the first stroke or "leader," there may be several discharges following each other so rapidly that they appear to the eye as a single flash.

Many Years Ago

At one time, the British Isles were connected to the continent of Europe. The North sea was not a sea, but there was a great river that flowed north and met the sea between the shores of Scotland and Norway.

Is Your Liver Poisoning You?

Are you sick and tired out every morning—always constipated—can't eat without pain and distress? Your liver is poisoning your system—permanent ill health may be the result!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If unhealthy, your body lacks this energy and becomes enfeebled—your mind disappears. Again your liver puts out bile to digest food, get rid of waste and proper nourishment to reach your body. When your liver gets out of order proper digestion and nourishment stop—you're poisoned with the waste that decomposes in your system. You have nervous troubles and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated, stomach aches, can't work properly. The whole system is affected and you feel "run down," head-achy, back-achy, dizzy, tired out—ready prey for sickness and disease.

Thousands of people are never sick, and have won prompt relief from their miseries with "Improved Frodo-Liver" as Canada's largest selling liver bitters. They will be good to try them yourself NOW. "Frodo-Liver" put you back on the road to lasting health—feel like a new person. 25¢, 50¢.

Easily Bribed

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Ivins

A few columns back this space was devoted to that branch of the individual citizen's army administered by the Master General of the Ordnance. It was remarked that there would be more coming on this subject.

Now, following the arrival in Great Britain of an advance party of the First Canadian Base Ordnance Workshop, seems to be a good time to re-open the subject.

"Biggest" seems to be the controlling adjective for pieces about the M.G.O.'s branch. First we had the biggest mail-order house—now comes this new Base Ordnance Workshop which is without question the biggest repair and service station in the world.

But it isn't so much the new workshop I want to talk about as the unconventionality that characterized its formation.

Unconventionality is as much a trade mark of the M.G.O. branch as are superlative adjectives. Which is just as well since this is an unconventional war.

Prime piece of unconventionality, of course, is the heading of the latest rapidly expanding branch of the Canadian Army by a civilian. As you know there was a precedent for that in English history.

Now, and this brings us back to the Base Ordnance Workshop, here is another example of the type of unconventionality that is going to help us win the war. Overnight an ex-private, who had made his name as a big one in the operation of peace-time mechanized vehicles, was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel and appointed to command an army organization for which no pattern existed. The ex-private, who had been too busy in the years between wars to carry on in the militia, was G. A. Second, of Toronto. One day he was Mr. Second, operator of the Hertz Drive System, the next he was Lt.-Col. G. A. Second, officer commanding the First Canadian Base Ordnance Workshop.

Here is an amusing paradox. The man responsible for this latest unconventionality is Victor Sifton, Winnipeg newspaperman and Master General of the Ordnance—who reversed the process when he was appointed to his present position.

How come? If you'll stand for a bad pun the answer is, "comme ça." When Lieut.-Colonel Victor Sifton first volunteered his services for the duration of the war he was appointed Executive Assistant to the Minister of National Defence and his name is still painted on the opaque glass of an office door on the same floor as Col. Ralston's office.

The legend reads: "Executive Assistant, Lieut.-Col. Sifton." An economy reasons it was obliterated by a sheet of paper pasted over it when Sifton took over the M.G.O. job.

But when he took over the new job Lieut.-Col. Sifton became Mr. Sifton—demoting himself just exactly the same number of steps that he promoted Lieut.-Col. Second!

And on the door of his present office there appears just this: "406, Private!"

Unconventional? The word seems pale.

Just recently President Roosevelt appointed William Knudsen Lieutenant-General to do the same job in the United States.

"Lieutenant" is pronounced "Lieutenant" in the United States and is accorded somewhat the same pronunciation by the British Navy. Soldiers and civilians in the British Empire pronounce it, as you know, "Lieutenant." This last army slang, it is true, but it is in line with minor researches into colloquial terminology conducted from time to time by this column.

We have scouts at work and hope to publish the results of their reconnaissance next week.

To Locate Lost Radium

An electric "hound" to track down costly bits of radium and to protect hospital and laboratory workers against dangerous stray X-rays has recently been developed. Resembling a portable radio receiver, it can detect invisible radiation from as little as one ten-millionths of an ounce of radium.

Largest of its kind is the heaviest truck which attains an average length of 36 feet approximately.

Canada's national parks have nearly 700 miles of motor highways and 3,000 miles of trails. 2451

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A PLAY?

One Scene At A Time
How long will it take to do a one-act play? That depends on how much time you have at your disposal. If you are staging a show for raising funds, well, you know how long your hours are. We are commencing our festival work now, and festival is usually held at Easter time. I can hear you gasp and say, "But my cast get stale long before they finish if they were to work that long." I don't know if it is the play, the show, the situation, and plenty of conflict, with smart repartee. For a one-act play you should have from 12 to 16 rehearsals to present the show with confidence and assurance that all your players will give a top-notch performance.

To get the most out of a rehearsal, divide your play into scenes, (from one character's entrance to their exit) is often advantageous. Plan them to practice in small groups. For example in our play, Mrs. Jones and Miss Pugh open the play and "chat" for a few minutes. My first rehearsal will take care of that scene and they will be the only ones at rehearsal that night. The others will be asked to spend some time that evening looking over lines at home. You will notice I said "look over" not "learn" lines. I do not approve of memorizing lines until we have had several rehearsals and they know what type of people they are representing.

Mrs. Jones will be asked to write out all the characteristics about herself she can find in the play. Where, how, many others there were in her family, has she a family? What her husband does for a living? How much she earns, and a dozen other things. I hear you say, "Surely you can't find all those things in the script?" Not all of them but a great many are disclosed if you look closely enough. Use your imagination to find out the others from the facts you already know. I tell the class, "You, who ground the first time I asked for a biography, but now they are quite accustomed to it, and with you other to see who can fill the most pages. It is very gratifying for them then go to the characterizing work. They are working with an old friend. "Would Mrs. Jones do that, Marion?" I will often ask when they are working with an old friend. "Would Mrs. Jones do that, Marion?" I will often ask when they are working with an old friend. "Would Mrs. Jones do that, Marion?" I will often ask when they are working with an old friend.

Good-bye until next week—Mary Ellen Burgess, Box 326, Regina.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

All-Brin Apple Butter Bread would win a prize in any bread-baking contest! The apple butter keeps the loaf moist, while the bran gives it a toasted, nut-like taste. Fortunately, it's a quick bread that can be turned out easily and inexpensively by the following recipe:

All-Brin Apple Butter Bread
1 cup All-brin
1 1/2 cups apple butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup seedless raisins
Combine All-brin with apple butter and lemon juice; let soak about five minutes. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Add All-brin and apple butter. Sift flour with baking powder, soda and salt; add raisins. Combine with first mixture, stirring only until dough disappears. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) for 1 hour and 10 minutes. Cool before cutting.
Yield: One loaf (5 1/2 x 9 1/2-inch pan).

Too Much For Him

A minister advertised for a manservant. The next morning a well-dressed young man rang the bell. "Can you start the fire and get breakfast by 7 o'clock?" the minister asked.

"I guess so," replied the young man.

"Well, can you polish all the silver, wash the dishes and keep the house neat and tidy?"

"Say, parson," answered the young fellow, "I can't hear to be so about getting married, but if it's going to be as much work as all that you can count me out right now."

The word "salary" goes back to the time when Roman soldiers were given salaries, or money to buy salt. And people not worth their salt seldom draw salaries long.

Wild Rose Hips Provide Fruit Juice For Britain's Babies

Even Britain's wild roses have been called on to do their part for the nation.

Countrywomen, boy scouts, girl guides and school children last fall gathered Britain's hedges and commons for the annual crop of "hips"—bright red fruit of the wild rose. Processed by manufacturers, 500 tons of this fruit has become a syrup 20 times richer in vitamin "C" than orange juice which now is scarce.

This quantity will meet the requirements of 2,500,000 babies for a year, allowing 15 drops of syrup a day for each child, it is estimated. One ounce of the syrup is sufficient for a child for one month.

Allies Pool War Weapons For A Common Cause

London.—Production Minister Lord Beaverbrook told the house of lords that the Washington committed war materials board plans to produce 400,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually of which Britain expects to get 80,000 tons.

Last week's tank production, after Sir Andrew Duncan became the new minister of supply, was the largest since the beginning of the war, he told the house.

Promises of material aid to Russia, he declared, were added up to Jan. 31, "with the exception of one tank." British tanks played "a very big part in the defence of Moscow," Lord Beaverbrook said, adding "but we must send Russia very shortly immensely increased shipments of tanks and aircraft."

Lord Beaverbrook said it was his job to persuade producers in Canada, the United States and all other Allied countries "to bring forward their program consistently with the Allied needs in the battle line all over the world."

The principal production that will have to be dealt with is not from the factories of Britain, he said. His main function would be "to tap every source of supply, to send the principal sources of supply and for a time the United States will become the biggest source of supply."

"Canada is of high importance and must be rapidly produced," he said. "Canada has all the facilities for creating output and certainly Canadian output will grow."

The minister said the Allies have not only pooled all weapons produced in the United States and Britain as well as other Allied countries, but also have set up boards to dispose of these weapons.

Lord Beaverbrook said large quantities of machine tools had been sent to Russia and Australia and added: "Now the minister of production must look to the position here where the machine tool industry can be developed."

He said there is a shortage of new weapons, "but if we had no obligations to foreign countries, if we could keep for ourselves all we produce, there would be no shortage of war weapons."

Lord Beaverbrook pointed out that in addition to arms exports from Britain to the fighting forces "large numbers of tanks were sent direct to the Middle East from the United States, and we have sent away our Canadian tanks too. They have never come to this country."

Strong Naval Base

According to Report Nazis Are Armament Port Of Narvik

Stockholm.—Reports from Norway say Nazis are evacuating civilians from the Norwegian port of Narvik.

The movement apparently is preliminary to making Narvik one of Germany's strongest naval bases in the North Atlantic. Fortifications and docks—evidently for submarines—are nearly complete on an island in the main fjord.

Fine While It Worked

Dog Snuggled White Bread From North Ireland Into Eire

Belfast.—Customs officials disclosed that a dog has been smuggling white bread from North Ireland into Eire. The dog has been seen several times at a frontier bridge between North Ireland and County Donegal. He eluded guards, but one got close enough to see that he had a loaf of bread tied to his neck.

Sabotage In South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa.—A fresh outbreak of sabotage which disrupted telephone and telegraph communication between the Transvaal and Cape Province resulted in assignment of escorts for line repairmen. Two lineamen have been attacked while attempting to repair damaged communications.

Enlists For Service

Halifax.—Gnr. Howard Soong, 22-year-old son of a former Cantonese banker now believed to be in Hong Kong; took the oath of allegiance for active service with the Canadian army here and pledged himself to "fight for China's allies." He went to school at Moose Jaw.

Outlines New Duties

Churchill Gives Idea Of Work Lord Beaverbrook Will Do

London.—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's newly-appointed minister of production, will represent Britain in various pooling arrangements with the United States in a capacity corresponding to that of Donald M. Nelson, head of America's war production board.

All labor questions, Mr. Churchill added, will be settled between the minister of labor, Ernest Bevin, and the new minister of production, Lord Beaverbrook.

Of Lord Beaverbrook's selection for the production portfolio, it was explained entry of United States into the war with its consequent far-reaching measures for pooling of resources had necessitated a change in the British setup and that the Canadian-born publisher not only has close contact with American production chiefs but also "the confidence and good will" of President Roosevelt.

Airplane Losses

British Losses To End Of 1941 Were 3,981 Planes

London.—British air losses to the end of 1941 were 3,981 planes, against German losses of 6,440 aircraft and Italian losses of 2,119, Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair declared in a written reply to a House of Commons question.

Air losses include aircraft destroyed by the Free French but not those accounted for by naval aircraft or ships of the Royal Navy and merchant marine.

Free French losses are not included in the British figures.

Terms Of Sale For Used And Repaired Tires

Ottawa.—Terms of sale for used and retreaded tires and tubes were placed under strict control in an order issued by Supplies Controller Alan H. Williamson.

The new order provides that used tires or tubes may be sold only at prices equivalent to prices charged for used tires or tubes in similar condition during the basic period—Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941—and "in no case at more than 75 per cent. of the published retail price for a new tire, tube or casing of the same size, brand and grade."

The ruling requires also that motor vehicles owners must turn in to the dealer a tire or tube of corresponding size before purchasing a used, repaired, retreaded or recapped tire or tube.

"He (the vehicle owner) will receive no trade-in allowance of any kind," Mr. Williamson said. "The tire or tube he turns in must be removed at the time of the sale, from the rim of a running wheel or spare."

"After the purchase has been completed the owner must not have in his possession—on his car, in his garage, or anywhere else—more tires than are necessary to equip his running wheels and one spare."

Except under permit from the controller, no tire repairer may charge a higher price for repairing, recapping or retreading a tire or tube than a tube, then he charged for the same work during the basic period.

Manufacturers were forbidden, under a recent ruling, to equip a new automobile with a spare tire. A special provision of the new order makes it possible for the new automobile purchaser to buy a used, repaired or retreaded tire, and a used tube, provided he has no spare.

New tires cannot be purchased in this way.

If a tire or tube is stolen, the vehicle owner must apply to the nearest local prices and supply representative of the wartime prices and trade board for a certificate. This must be presented to the tire dealer when he goes to buy another tire or tube. If the vehicle qualified only for used tires before the theft, it would qualify only for a used tire to replace the tire which had been stolen.

For the purpose of the order a "used" tire is defined as a tire that has been on a "running" wheel for 300 miles or more.

While the announcement did not say so, it was manifest that the order was another result of the rubber shortage which Mr. Williamson has frequently described as serious. New tires, tubes and casings are already under tight priority control, and "purchases limited to persons and organizations deemed essential services."

Egg Shipments

Will Now Be Sent To Britain In Dried Powder Form

Ottawa.—Canadian eggs for Britain are to be shipped from now on in dried powder form instead of in the shell, the special products board stated. The change will make no difference in the contract prices for export eggs in 1942, nor in the demand for all the top quality eggs that can be made available for Britain. The bonus of three cents per dozen on grade A eggs to producers will be continued. Exporters will continue to offer eggs to the special products board, but the eggs will be shipped for drying as directed by the board.

Will Be Self-Supporting

Registration Fee Pays For Operation Of Gasoline Rationing Plan

Ottawa.—The gasoline rationing plan which goes into effect on April 1, will be self-supporting. Munitions Minister Howe said. He explained in a statement that expenditures necessary for the printing of the application forms and coupon books, the cost of regional offices, and any other expenses involved in the operation of the plan, will be met out of the $1 registration fee which the car owner will pay.

Lieut. Barney Medland, Winnipeg, crew member of the torpedoed British aircraft carrier Ark Royal, claims looking into a camera is worse than facing Nazi U-boats and torpedoes. He should know, for he and Lieut. William Fowler of Toronto were the last to leave the Ark Royal before she toppled over near Gibraltar. Lieut. Medland is home on leave, but Lieut. Fowler is still at Gibraltar "mopping up."

Fast Work

Canadian Factory Produces Gun Barrels In Less Time

Toronto.—Bernard Schotegavel, a South African and leader of Gen. Jan Smuts' party in the provincial house, said in an address that one Canadian factory has produced a gun barrel in one-third the production time required for the same barrel in Britain.

Turning to manpower, he told the Kifwani club luncheon that South Africa had a higher percentage of Europeans on active service than any other British dominion.

"Seven and one-half per cent. of our white population is on active service, all on a voluntary basis," he added.

British Army Casualties

Official Release From London Given Number At December 31

New York.—A British press service released said 71.3 per cent. of casualties suffered by British land forces up to the end of 1941 involved troops from the United Kingdom.

Quoting official information cables from London, the service said British army casualties were estimated at 169,000 compared with 15,000 for Australia, 7,000 for India and 6,000 for New Zealand. (With a population of only 1,600,000, New Zealand thus has the highest ratio of casualties.)

The service put South Africa casualties at 5,170, those of Canada at 2,335, and those of Newfoundland at 106.

Price Ceiling

Services Performed By Optometrists Come Under Regulations

Ottawa.—Services performed by optometrists are placed under price ceiling regulations in an order published in the Canada Gazette.

The order also includes all glasses, lenses, frames and other articles supplied by an optometrist whether or not he renders services.

Also provided was an order that sales slips, bills, advertisements or catalogues may be accepted as prima facie evidence in prosecution under price-ceiling legislation.

Need Increased Production Of All Feed Crops

Toronto.—Canada's 1942 agricultural program calls for increased production in all feed producing crops across the Dominion with special emphasis on coarse grains, Dr. G. S. H. Barton, federal deputy minister of agriculture, told the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

Apart from wheat, Canada had less than a month's feed supply on hand before the 1941 crop was harvested and termed this "a very unsafe position."

Eastern Canada could not "coast along" in feed production, assuming it could look to the west for all the supplies it needed and receiving public money to bring them east. Free freight for feed was justifiable under war emergency conditions but it was doubtful if it could be considered sound practice except on a purely supplementary basis.

Dr. Barton said western wheat reserves could be maintained with much less acreage than was regarded normal prior to 1941 when a substantial reduction was made, if production conditions were reasonably favorable.

The west was in a position to increase its coarse grains acreage again this year and still meet all wheat requirements, and this was part of the crop production program.

A proposed fertilizer policy, with financial assistance from the Dominion, was designed to assist eastern feed production.

Dr. Barton said a 25 per cent. increase in vegetable crops would probably be required.

An increase of 17 per cent. in hog production compared with last year was needed and, since the increase so far this year was smaller than that figure, producers should begin to raise output by 25 per cent. over last year.

Fluid milk requirements would probably require an increase of 500,000,000 pounds, half the increase attained in 1941.

With respect to labor, Dr. Barton said that perhaps the best which could be hoped for was that every productive farm would have experienced direction, whether operated as a unit or in combination with some other farm, and that sufficient labor would be obtained to man the key positions.

Says Britain Is Confident That We Will Win War

Ottawa.—Leonard W. Brockington, former special assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, told a press conference that Britain had a great enthusiasm for Canada but lack a general understanding "of just what Canada is doing in the war."

Mr. Brockington arrived in Ottawa after two months in Britain. He plans to resume law practice as associate counsel for an Ottawa firm but will devote as much time as possible to war activities, he said.

During his stay in Britain he interviewed well-known personalities from Prime Minister Churchill to George Bernard Shaw.

General de Gaulle, leader of the Free French, had given him a message for Canadians and it would be released shortly.

"I saw many evidences of magnificent work Canadian scientists, doctors and nurses are doing," he told newspapermen.

There was no general view in Britain regarding the possible length of the war but the most optimistic opinions of a short war were held by Russian Ambassador Ivan Malsky.

The English people looked on the government's proposed manpower plebiscite as Canadian business and had no criticism of any dominion for either wanting or not wanting an imperial war cabinet, he said.

While the fall of Singapore was not regarded likely while he was in England, Mr. Brockington described the British people as inclined to take a general view of the war and to show less concern than Canadians over isolated defeats.

"The war can be won in a number of places and could certainly be lost in one place—great Britain," he commented.

The British people had "an amazing enthusiasm for the fighting qualities of the Russian army and he was more confident of success than the Russian ambassador."

"I never heard the shadow of a whisper of the possibility of defeat," he said. It was generally agreed that nothing could happen to put Great Britain against the wall as she had been after the collapse of France and Dunkirk.

Gas Rationing

Will Be No Effect On Hours In Gas Ration Plan

Ottawa.—The hours during which gasoline may be sold to the public will not be affected by the gasoline rationing plan.

"Everyone seems well satisfied with the 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. closing and Sunday sale ban," Mr. Munitions Minister Howe said. "Service station attendants are particularly well pleased as they now are able to lead normal lives. For the present no change is intended in closing hours."

Composed Famous War Song

Man Who Wrote "Pack Up Your Troubles" Is Dead

Brighton, England.—Felix Powell, composer of the First Great War marching song, "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag," died of a gunshot wound suffered in a home guard headquarters. Powell, about 60 years old, wrote the music and his brother George the words of what turned into one of the most popular songs of the last war, much to their surprise.

Fewer Immigrants

Largest Number Entering Last Year Were From United States

Ottawa.—Immigrants entering Canada in 1941 numbered 9,329 and more than half of them came from the United States, an immigration branch statement showed. Not since 1860, when 6,276 arrived, has the total been so small. The 1941 total was down almost 2,000 from 1940 when 11,324 entered the Dominion.

Post-War Development

London.—Lord Reith has been given the new title of minister of works and planning, with the task of guiding town and country in post-war development schemes, Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio in the war cabinet, announced in the House of Commons. Referring to Hitler, a British general remarked: "We have that beast's head in a box, but he's still lashing with his tail."

A large number of motor mechanics, facing reduced work as a result of government action in car restrictions, are enlisting in base ordnance workshops.

Fifteen hundred and fifty dollars was recently paid for a Hereford bull at Denver, Colorado, by R. H. Bennett, of the Shodoras Ranch near Twin Butte, Alberta.

We all know how Benjamin Franklin awoke about 5 o'clock one morning to discover the opportunity for daylight saving. But it couldn't have been on a morning around February the 9th—Christian Science Monitor.

An exchange says the Gestapo is enlisting German barbers to report on reasonable conversation in their shops. Very illogical, for the word "conversation" implies more than one talking, which in this case is absurd.

Sergt. J. A. Cawsey, of the Lethbridge R.C.M.P. headquarters, has received word that his nephew, Pilot Officer John N. Cawsey, is missing following the running battle in the English Channel with the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. The young aviator is the 20-year-old son of Det. Sergeant J. N. Cawsey, of the R.C.M.P., Calgary, and joined up in October of 1940.

No individual can keep his peace-time outlay and be able to take his share of the obligations inseparable from Canada's participation in the war. This is just as true of governments as it is of individuals. . . . The prudent way of living will be the simple life, and it may be that this will also be the healthiest and most wholesome life as well.—Amherst (Nova Scotia) News.

IT'S A HELL OF A WORLD!

"It's a funny world. If a man gets money, he's a grafter. If he keeps it, he's a capitalist. If he doesn't get it, he's a no-fo-do-will. If he tries to get it, he's a Communist. If he doesn't try to get it, he lacks ambition. If he gets it without working for it, he's a parasite. And if he accumulates it after a lifetime of hard work, he's a nucker."—Life. Whatever else he is, he's a taxpayer.

Doctor, on the phone: "It's a girl!" Father of eight: "What! Another mouth to buy cigarettes for!"

Dad: "Now children, tell us who has been the most obedient during the last month and does everything that mother asked him to do?" Chorus: "You, daddy."

A Frenchman is reported to have told an Italian statesman colleague: "France is more fortunate than Italy." "Why?" inquired the Italian. "Well, because we have an unoccupied zone."
